4. Pre-Assessment Forms

To ensure that learners are attending the correct level of training; we recommend pre-assessments. A form in this regard is to be completed, per course, and faxed back to us for a skills level check. We will then assess which level of training should be attended and we will inform you accordingly. This service is offered free of charge to all companies. Group pre-assessments on-site within the learner's working environment can also be conducted at an hourly rate. These assessments are an invaluable tool to any HR or Skills Development Manager to effectively utilise staff as well as financial resources.

5. Course Contents for MS Office

Our training centre and trainers are fully equipped to train you in all versions of Microsoft Office. All our Microsoft Office courses consist of Basic, Intermediate and Advanced Levels. A detailed outline of each course is available on request.

6. Soft Skill Training

We offer a vast range of soft skill training as we believe it goes hand in hand with the computer training. These training sessions can be held in-house or on-site at your premises. The same levels of strict quality and customer satisfaction are adhered to; however, no pre-assessments are completed for this training.

7. On-Site Training

On-site training is ideal for companies with their own training facilities. The course is run at your premises for a maximum of eight learners at a fixed fee.

8. One-on-One Training

This option is ideal for people who want individual training and is available at a fixed fee regardless of the course.

9. Customised Courses

All courses on offer can be tailor-made to suit your preferences and requirements. This includes the timeframe availability and the exact, specified training demands which need to be met.

The design and layout of the training material as well as the personal interaction of the trainer with the learners ensures that the course material can be applied with immediate effect. Classroom practice sessions are completed to ensure the learner is proficient in the attended course.

14. Transparency

All courses are subjected to a dual criteria system: A trainer's report-back on learners, primarily as a managerial feedback report, as well as the assessment from the learners on the trainer. This process ensures that quality training and personal attention is given to each and every learner, resulting in a mutually beneficial experience.

15. Delivery of Certificates

All learners that attend and successfully complete the training are awarded with an individualised Certificate of Attendance. These certificates are handed to the learner immediately after training.

Help is just a phone call away. We offer help to all learners who might have technical queries or problem scenarios which they encounter after their training has been completed. Learners can make contact with us via email or telephonically. Should one of our trainers be available immediately he/she will assist with the query; otherwise your call will be returned as quickly as possible.
